Campus

Faculty member dies:
Michael Hodges, assistant director for microcomputers at University Placement Services, died suddenly at his home on Jan. 3.
Hodges joined the University staff in January of 1990. He was formerly employed by Teledyne C.A.E. and WTOD Broadcasting. In addition, he had been an honorary deputy sheriff in Henry County, a volunteer for the Fire Brigade of Teledyne, a member of the National Management Association and the project manager of the 911 installation of Henry County.
A scholarship has been established in Hodges' name. Contributions can be made to the BGSU Foundation by indicating the Mick Hodges Scholarship Fund.

Student hospitalized:
A University student remains hospitalized after a Sunday morning accident at Ohio 795 and Tracy Road, near Moline.
Shane Hunter, 261 S. Summit St., is listed in serious condition at Maumee's St. Luke hospital. She was struck while making a left turn into the path of a truck travelling west on Ohio 795, an Ohio State Patrol spokesperson said.

Speaker cancelled:
Poor weather forced Ohio House Speaker Vern Riffe, R-Wheelersburg, to cancel his appearance at fall commencement Dec. 22.
The University had planned to honor Riffe, a prominent supporter of higher education, with an honorary doctorate of political science degree at the ceremony. However, Riffe decided to scratch his trip due to wintery weather reports and a full schedule.
"It was very disappointing for him," said Kent Carson, a top Riffe aide.

PLO founders assassinated Deadline to make Bush weigh options

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) — The two closest aides to PLO chairman Yasser Arafat were assassinated by gunmen who stormed a house Monday night in Tunis. Palestinian security sources blamed Israeli agents for the killing.

The sources, reached in Tunis by telephone from Nicosia, said the men attacked the home of Hayel Abdel-Hamid, the Palestine Liberation Organization's security chief, while he was meeting there with Salah Khalaf, a co-founder of the guerrilla movement and Arafat's right-hand man.

The Palestinian leaders were killed instantly in the shooting at 11 p.m., the sources said.

Khalaf, considered the PLO's No. 2 man, was better known by his nom de guerre of Abu Iyad. Both men were in their late 50s.

The death of Khalaf left Arafat

as the only survivor among the three original founders of Fatah, the original PLO group and its largest faction.

The other founder, Khalil al-Wazir, was assassinated by commandos on April 16, 1988, also in Tunisia.

Arafat was on his way from Amman to Paris for talks on the gulf crisis when the shooting occurred, the sources said. He had flown into Amman earlier Monday from Baghdad, where he was working to defuse the Persian Gulf crisis. Israeli sources said the Mossad intelligence service and the Israeli navy assassinated al-Wazir in 1988, because of his role in organizing Palestinian rioting against Israeli occupation of the West Bank and Gaza Strip.

One of the sources in Tunis, a senior officer of Fatah, said: "Investigation is under way," to determine who was behind Monday's attack, "but all indications so far are that Israeli agents were behind it."

"They killed them the same way they killed Abu Jihad," he said, referring to Wazir by his nom-de-guerre.

Arafat was on his way from Amman to Paris for talks on the gulf crisis when the shooting occurred, but canceled his visit in light of the assassinations, Daniel Bernard, a French Foreign Ministry spokesman, said at a Paris briefing.

Arafat had planned to promote a French-Palestinian initiative in which Iraq would pull its troops from Kuwait in exchange for promises of a future Mideast conference on the Palestinian situation in the occupied territories, an aide said. Arafat had flown into Amman earlier Monday from Baghdad.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Tuesday, midnight.

For weeks, the world has watched Saddam Hussein for any sign that might indicate peace instead of war. But when the clock strikes midnight, the world-watch shifts abruptly to Washington, where President Bush weighs his war options.

Today is the last day of the United Nations grace period, after which a military strike may be unleashed against Saddam if he has not withdrawn from Kuwait.

The heavy decision to use military force may not come in the pre-dawn hours of Wednesday, or on Wednesday at all. But the president will scarcely be able to make a public appearance once the deadline passes without being bombarded by questions about when he will carry out the U.N. resolutions.

On Sunday afternoon, Bush was asked if he had a message for the American people as he considered sending the nation to war. "I tell them the same thing I tell the American people over and over again — I say we've got to do what we have to do," he said.

Bush was deliberately ambiguous on timing, although on Saturday he declared that action would come "sooner rather than later."

Although midnight in Iraq is 4 p.m. on the U.S. East Coast, the Bush administration has said it considers the deadline to be midnight EST, because the United Nations headquarters in New York is in the Eastern time zone.

Bush could choose 12:01 a.m. Wednesday to somberly tell Defense Secretary Dick Cheney to relay to field commander Gen. Norman Schwarzkopf the order

Optimism for peace fades

by Brian Murphy
Associated Press writer

U.N. Secretary-General Javier Perez de Cuellar said yesterday he lost hope for peace in the Persian Gulf after talks with Saddam Hussein and Iraq's lawmakers pledged to support Saddam with their blood.

"Unfortunately, I don't see any more reasons to be optimistic. I don't see any reason to have real hope," the secretary-general said after meeting with President Francois Mitterrand in Paris. His comment came on the eve of the U.N. deadline authorizing force to oust Iraq from Kuwait.

Perez de Cuellar's 2½-hour meeting with Saddam in Baghdad on Sunday had been considered the last best chance to avoid an attack on Iraqi forces by the multinational force assembled after Iraq seized Kuwait on Aug. 2.

President Bush called Iraq's apparent intention to keep troops in Kuwait beyond the midnight EST withdrawal deadline "a tremendous mistake."

President Bush on Sunday called Iraq's apparent intention to keep troops in Kuwait beyond today's midnight EST withdrawal deadline "a tremendous mistake." In Baghdad, Saddam said any "last-minute initiatives" for peace were up to the United States.

In the nations that line the gulf, residents stocked up on provisions and sealed windows and doors to protect against poison gas attacks. Some people sought gas masks, others hunted for a flight out.

Fearing an Iraqi attack, Israel today called up more reserves and the United Nations ordered the dependents of its staff members to leave the Jewish state.

New governor sworn in

Voinovich prepares for hard work and tough times

COLUMBUS (AP)— George Voinovich became Ohio's 65th governor on Monday, vowing in an inaugural speech to about 2,500 people that he will make state government more effective and efficient.

The 54-year-old Republican said Ohio faces lean economic times — a budget deficit of up to $2 billion dollars over the next two years, and that state government must work "harder and smarter" doing what it does best.

"We will place special emphasis on management, economic development and education," he said in a 20-minute speech outlining his goals. He was not specific about how he hopes to achieve them. He earlier ruled out higher taxes.

Voinovich traced his ethnic beginnings in Cleveland. He said that as a boy he dreamed of being governor.

"Today that dream comes true," he said, as his widowed mother, Josephine, 79, looked on with a smile.

Voinovich and his handpicked lieutenant governor, former U.S. Rep. Michael DeWine, took their oaths of office on a flag-draped platform at the statehouse and then joined their families to lead a 50-unit parade through downtown Columbus under a bleak sky.

The noon inauguration drew two former governors, including departing Democrat Richard Celeste, and dozens of other past and present officials, such as congressmen and leaders of both parties in the Ohio General Assembly.

Voinovich, a former Cleveland mayor, and his wife, Janet, later made the rounds of other events that included a celebration featuring ethnic songs and dances. They were to attend three balls that night.

The new governor took time out in mid-afternoon to swear in the members of his Cabinet and to sign orders that, among other things, ban solicitation of campaign money from unclassified employees — a campaign pledge.

Voinovich wore a dark blue top coat with an orange lapel ribbon to signify support for U.S. troops in the Persian Gulf. His wife and their three children, along with DeWine and his wife, Fran, and some of their seven children, walked the length of the parade route before settling into a reviewing stand to watch the remaining units.

Mrs. Voinovich struggled to keep a broad-brimmed hat intact in the wind as she walked hand-in-hand with her husband, who occasionally rushed to the curb to greet friends and others in a group that worked for him at Cleveland City Hall.

Plan protects BG from budget cuts

by Jeremy Stone Weber
staff writer

The University received a Christmas present in the form of no budget cuts from the state, but University leaders remain cautious about possible future developments.

In mid-December, state legislative leaders and former Gov. Richard Celeste agreed to a plan which aims to eliminate the state's projected $271.2 million deficit without reducing funding to higher education.

House Bill 956, passed by the Ohio General Assembly in late December, does not include cuts to higher education or health care, two areas which House Speaker, Vern Riffe Jr. D-Wheelersburg, deemed critical to protect. Riffe, Celeste and Senate President Stanley Aronoff, R-Cincinnati, agreed on the plan designed by the state's office of budget and management.

"[Riffe] was very happy with the plan," said Kent Carson, a top Riffe aide. "He made some commitments and came through."

The plan includes several fund transfers and authorization to use as much as $82 million dollars from the state's "rainy day" fund.

The solutions proposed by the bill will attempt to eradicate $191.2 million of the state's deficit. The remaining $79.9 million was taken care of through spending cuts ordered by Celeste.

The plan is now under review by newly-inaugurated Gov. George Voinovich, said senior budget analyst David Gehr.

The plan operates under some assumptions about the economy for the remainder of the fiscal year, which ends June 30. Should the economy slow more than anticipated, more cuts could be made, he said.

"It depends on the amount our assumptions would be off," Gehr said.

Gehr would not speculate on the chances of higher education funding being reduced in the future.

"[Voinovich] has only been in office for a few hours, so we're not sure what will happen," he said. Carson was also unsure whether the plan would effectively eliminate the deficit, caused greatly by lower-than-expected income tax revenues.

"A state budget is a very fluid thing," he said. "With five months left in the fiscal year, it's possible we could run into more problems, but I doubt it." University President Paul Olscamp and several other officials had predicted a budget cut by mid-January. Leaders called the bill encouraging, but were not sure it meant the University would escape a mid-year drop in funding.

"[The bill] is good news," said Christopher Dalton, vice president of planning and budgeting. "I think it shows the priorities that the governor and the legislative leaders have assigned to education."

However, he warned, "I think we have to be cautious. The budget problems could be greater than estimated."

Vice President of University Relations, Philip Mason, said the University's freeze on hiring new faculty and staff members will continue until June 30. The freeze is designed as a prevention measure due to lack of information about what the legislature

Patience is the key, not battle

The United States is again battling a thin line on whether war is the best option.

Many supporters for military intervention against Iraq are willing to risk thousands of lives because they fear a greater loss later if nothing is done now.

They argue that by not stopping Saddam Hussein, the probability of future problems with him will be of deeper consequence.

Is our society so short-sighted that we believe that we have to kill today to save more lives tomorrow?

If we go to war, the greatest injustice won't be how many lives were lost, but instead, that we continue to counter aggression with greater aggression.

The United States often attempts to manifest evil. Saddam Hussein is a brutal man, but comparing him to Hitler is an insult to the victims and survivors of the Holocaust.

In Vietnam, the evil was Ho Chi Minh and the spread of communism that justified American troops entering into conflict.

But if Vietnam stirred anything in Americans, it made them finally ask the question, "why are we fighting?"

There are more protests and greater awareness about the Middle East crisis now than there ever was during the first few years of Vietnam.

Yet, President George Bush said he is unwilling to negotiate with Hussein until Iraq pulls out of Kuwait. Hussein said he will not give up Kuwait and war is probable.

Stubbornness may be a key element in the two leaders' international game of Risk, but in the real world, it isn't plastic pieces they are playing with — it is human flesh and blood.

International bargaining between the United Nations, the Arab league and Iraq should have happened six months ago. Nevertheless, it is still too early to abandon a diplomatic solution to the Gulf crisis now.

The implications of a United States military advance into Kuwait shortly after today's deadline is crucial to both the future state of the Middle East and human lives that are being waged.

First, if the United States attacks Iraq and wins a so-called quick war, what then? America has been quiet about its future plans, but with Iran and Syria seething on the Iraqi borders, it is not likely the United States would leave the area unguarded.

Bush has already said he would leave a strong force in the territories. But that brings up the question of whether the Arabs want us there.

The Islamic nations would never stand for long-term Western occupation. Moreover, the United States is seen as the successor to Britain and France's imperialist rule in the Middle East.

A long term stay would only remind the Arabs of the exploitation they have endured already from the self-serving Westerners and cause them to focus their frustrations on the United States.

Second, if we go to war, Iraq is almost certain to attempt to escalate the conflict by involving the Israelis.

Once the Israelis have been involved, the chance of the international coalition disintegrating is increased dramatically. Arab distaste for Israel is strong enough that it would leave the United States and a few of its closest allies in the midst of a Holy War.

And in today's world this war would bring the shocking reality of terrorist attacks to our shores.

Finally, the United States may never be ready for war in the Gulf.

Lt. Gen. Calvin A.H. Waller has already said the United States Army won't be completely prepared to fight until mid to late February.

The Iraqis grew up in war; Americans grew up playing war on video games.

The most reasonable action is for Bush to allow the economic sanctions to continue, therefore, leaving room for a diplomatic resolution.

Iraq's Gross National Product has reportedly dropped more than 40 percent since sanctions started. But with a Holy War to rally around, Iraqi people may ignore their economic hardship or focus all the blame on the invaders. Hussein remains a hero.

With an effective blockade, Iraq can only become weaker and as they weaken, the prospect for war diminishes.

Some say it would be cheaper to chance an attack now in hopes of a quick end to the crisis.

However, patience is not too high a price for lives.

Soldier addresses U.S. involvement

I am currently a 1st Lieutenant in Saudi Arabia on Operation Desert Shield. I'm a graduate of BGSU. I received a copy of the Nov. 30 issue of The News which contained two letters written by Edward Daugherty and John Bernard.

First, to Mr. Daugherty, I say that joining protests and marching is in no way "supporting" us. I'm sure there is something positive you could focus all your creative energy on to help us.

You talked of "all the coop-to his aid.

Allow me to enlighten you on some facts. Less than 48 hours after Iraq invaded Kuwait, all resistance was crushed. Since then, Kuwait has been completely torn down and shipped to Iraq. Entire factories and hospitals have been dismantled, their equipment loaded on trucks and taken to Baghdad. The atrocities you've heard about are for real. Most Iraqi soldiers were told by their officers to loot, pillage and steal anything they could carry. Kuwaiti women have been put into slavery working for the Iraqi troops. This is not an economic matter.

Yes, there 200,000 homesick American soldiers here, but there are over one million Kuwaitis with no home or country to call their own. An entire nation disappeared from the map in less than two days. You can call it what you want, but if we don't do something now, then when? Kuwait and Saudi Arabia are friends to our nation. They asked for our help. That's why we're here. Americans are not fair-weathered friends. We won't turn our back on someone in need. The issue here is not economics; it's called naked aggression. And it is wrong.

When I signed up for the military, I knew what I was getting into and so did every other soldier. If I didn't believe in what I'm doing, I wouldn't be writing this letter. I hardly think that if the United Nations agrees with what we're doing, then we are all the victim of "military propaganda."

The News received this letter Dec. 23, 1990

erative governments focusing attention on Iraq." Who is cooperating with them? Surely not Iraq. If Iraq is so willing to "cooperate," why are there still 500,000 Iraqi troops in Kuwait?

Which leads me to Mr. Bernard's comments. The soldier to whom you referred said he was here to protect the freedoms of Americans. It is true that your individual freedoms were not infringed upon. However, the Americans that are hostages were invited here by companies and governments as guests to work and live here. It is our duty to see that when one of our countrymen is wronged, that we come

Conflicting extremes cause of war

"Plainly and simply: it has been the nations, tribes and peoples bred to mythologies of war that have survived to communicate their life-supporting mythic lore to descendants." Joseph Campbell in Myths To Live By.

It seems that the "whirling gyres" of history, as the poet William Butler Yeats put it, has brought us to the edge of war. War is simply and sadly a fact of human history. There is nothing noble in its existence. The American Revolution was caused as much by economic reasons as for independence. The colonists simply did not want to pay taxes to Britain anymore.

So you should not be surprised to see a war occurring in the Middle East over oil or borders. Primitive man fought over fire and it seems we still struggle over the basic ability to provide ourselves with the power to survive.

Two extremes are clashing in this confrontation. The extremes of culture, one seemingly Christian and one seemingly Islamic. Other extremes include a willingness to fight versus a pretty pathetic reason for doing so.

No one is arguing that Saddam Hussein should not be stopped. But because of our reactionary foreign policy that supported Hussein against Iran, we have created the monster which we now feel we must slay. We are reaping the seeds of destruction that we sowed during the fairy-tale Reagan Era.

After this struggle is over, our nation will have to look soberly at where our place is in the realm of history and in the world order. No longer are we protected by thousands of miles of deep blue sea. The world economic chain and power balance has transcended geographical boundaries.

We must prepare ourselves for a time of healing. Our surviving troops will need it and we as a nation cannot afford to be naive any longer. The hangover from the past decade will be brutal in the coming months.

"I pick up my guitar and play, then I get on my knees and pray... We don't get fooled again..." The Who Sloganeering will not stop or change this event. Like a supertanker approaching a coral reef, we can only watch the destruction that will occur. The momentum of events, like the supertanker, has taken months to accelerate. It will not be stopped in a day or a week. Last semester, we were concerned with beer and cops. Now they seem trivial in the face of things.

We must give our troops a free hand to protect and defend themselves. Moral blackmail has occurred. We have led with the sword, rather than with the strength of reason. Perhaps Hussein's brain will not listen to reason, but his belly will starve if the sanctions are enforced with any amount of fervor. Instead, diplomacy has failed miserably and it seems our justification now for the annihilation of Iraq is to protect our troops.

And although this is an ass-backwards way of justifying warfare, we must keep the well-being of our troops in mind.

As of this writing not a single shot has been fired, and though the streets of Kuwait are filled with the carnage of a conquering army, these are the fruits of conflict. To justify a war on such grounds is seemingly noble, but the blood that has flown so far in the streets of Kuwait is nothing compared to what will occur when the great battlelines of tanks and troops storm across the border to liberate the fiefdom of Kuwait.

A friend of mine was watching an NFL play-off game Saturday afternoon at a sports bar in Toledo. The bar had three big-screen televisions across one wall. On one screen the Buffalo Bills and the Miami Dolphins were squaring off on the gridiron to secure a place in the NFL finals. On the other screen, the House and Senate were voting to give the President authority to declare war.

A huge cheer erupted. And it wasn't for a Buffalo Bills touchdown. It was a response to the approval of Congress to give President George Bush full war powers.

It seems that if war must happen, we should be more sober about it.

Wanting and having are often two different things. Let us hope that we pass through this darkness speedily.

Bush addresses Gulf conflict in letter

Editor's Note: President George Bush mailed the following letter stating his position on the Persian Gulf crisis to more than 400 U.S. colleges. If armed men invaded a home in this country, killed those in their way, stole what they wanted and then announced the house was theirs — no one would hesitate about what must be done.

And that is why we cannot hesitate about what must be done halfway around the world: in Kuwait.

There is much in the modern world that is subject to doubts or questions — washed in shades of gray. But not the brutal aggression of Saddam Hussein against a peaceful, sovereign nation and its people. It's black and white. The facts are clear. The choice unambiguous.

Right vs. wrong
The terror Saddam Hussein has imposed upon Kuwait violates every principle of human decency. Listen to what Amnesty International has documented. "Widespread abuses of human rights have been perpetrated by Iraqi forces ... arbitrary arrest and detention without trial of thousands ... widespread torture ... imposition of the death penalty and the extrajudicial execution of hundreds of unarmed civilians, including children."

Including children There's no horror that could make this a more obvious conflict of good vs. evil. The man who used chemical warfare on his own people now oversees public hangings of dissenters. And daily his troops commit atrocities against Kuwaiti citizens.

This brutality has reverberated throughout the entire world. If we do not follow the dictates of our inner moral compass and stand up for human life, then his lawlessness will threaten the peace and democracy of the emerging new World Order we now see: this long dreamed-of vision we've all worked toward for so long.

A year after the joyous dawn of freedom's light in Eastern Europe, a dark evil has descended in another part of the world. But we have a chance — and we have the obligation — to stop ruthless aggression.

I have been in war. I have known the terror of combat. And I tell you this with all my heart: I don't want there to be war ever again. I am determined to do absolutely everything possible in the search for a peaceful resolution to this crisis — but only if the peace is genuine, if it rests on principle, not appeasement.

There are times in life when we confront values worth fighting for. This is one such time.

But while we search for that answer, in the Gulf young men and women are putting their own lives on hold in order to stand for peace in our world and for the essential value of human life itself. Many are younger than my own children. Your age, most of them. Doing tough duty for something they believe in.

Let me tell you about one of the soldiers over there, S.F.C. Terry Hatfield, a young man from Georgia. He sent me a Christmas card. And this is what he wrote.

"Mr. President, I just wanted you to know my soldiers and I are ready to do whatever mission you decide. Freedom as we know and enjoy has been taken away from another country and must be restored. Although we are separated from family, friends, loved ones, we will do what must be done ... We stand ready and waiting. God bless you and the U.S.A."

Terry understands the moral obligation that has compelled our extraordinary multi-national coalition to make this stand in the Gulf. To look this international terrorist straight in the eye and say: no concessions. To proclaim for now and the future: no compromises. To bear witness by our presence to the fact that aggression will not be rewarded.

Terry waits thousands of miles from the White House, yet we share the same thoughts. We desperately want peace. But we know that to reward aggression would be to end the promise of our new World Order. To reward aggression would be to destroy the United Nation's promise as international peacekeeper. To reward aggression would be to condone the acts of those who would desecrate the promise of human life itself.

And we will do none of this. There are times in life when we confront values worth fighting for. This is one such time.

Each day that passes means another day for Iraq's forces to dig deeper into their stolen land. Another day Saddam Hussein can work toward building his nuclear arsenal and perfecting chemical and biological weapons capability. Another day of atrocities for Amnesty International to document. Another day of international outlaws, instead of international law.

I ask you to think about the economic devastation that Saddam Hussein would continue to wreak on the world's emerging democracies if he were in control of one-fifth of the world's oil reserves. And to reflect on the terrible threat that a Saddam Hussein armed with weapons of mass destruction already poses to human life and to the future of all nations.

Together, as an America united against these horrors, we can, with our coalition partners, assure that this aggression is stopped and the principles on which this nation and the rest of the civilized world are founded and preserved.

And so let us remember and support Terry Hatfield, all our fine servicemen and women, as they stand ready on the frontier of freedom, willing to do their duty and do it well. They deserve our complete and enthusiastic support — and lasting gratitude.

President George Bush

Gulf residents prepare for clash

EDITOR'S NOTE — On a midsummer Thursday five months ago, the "new world order" was unexpectedly jolted out of its peaceful course. Here is a review of the Persian Gulf crisis.

by John Barbour, Associated Press Newsfeatures Writer

Almost unnoticed by the rest of the world, the Iraqis and the Kuwaitis met last July in the old Saudi Arabian seaport of Jiddah to settle an Arab family quarrel.

Iraq insisted Kuwait owed it $2.4 billion for oil the Kuwaitis "stole" from beneath their disputed border, and owed $14 billion more for revenues Iraq lost when its smaller neighbor exceeded its oil-production quota, set by the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries.

The Iraqis, who have historically claimed Kuwait as their territory, also wanted the Kuwaitis to forgive $15 billion loaned to Iraq during its long war with Iran.

Iraqi President Saddam Hussein knew his oil arithmetic well.

Kuwait sits on top of 10 percent of the world's known oil reserves. Combined with Iraq's 100 billion barrels, the total of 195 billion barrels would be second only to Saudi Arabia's reserves of 255 billion. Such a combination would make Saddam's Iraq a power to be reckoned with in the international economy.

In this desert landscape of long memories, Kuwaitis have been ruled by the same Bedouin family since 1756.

They don't forget that at the turn of the century they sheltered the Saudi family that would one day conquer all of what is present-day Saudi Arabia. Nor do they forget an Iraqi threat to their independence in 1961, when their old protectors, the British, and other Arab governments faced down Iraq.

Valued first for its strategic position and after 1938 for its oil, Kuwait — the name means "little fort" in Arabic — has led a precarious existence.

Last July's negotiations, under the auspices of Saudi Arabia and Egypt, attracted little attention. In fact, the U.S. ambassador to Iraq reportedly told Saddam, "We have no opinion on the Arab-Arab conflicts, like your border disagreement with Kuwait."

MANAMA, Bahrain — Kuwaiti women, dressed in black silk from head to toe, clutch airline tickets and await flights to the West. Their children clutch dolls.

An American oilman gives a thumbs-up sign and hollers, "I'm outta here."

An Arab who has little hope of leaving slaps a domino on the playing board and cracks a joke.

"Every day it's war, war, war," he says, "We've got to laugh sometimes."

In airports, on the highways, in the cities and towns of the countries lining the Persian Gulf, people are preparing for war.

Some in the region are hunker-ing down in their homes. They are covering the cracks in their windows with plastic and duct tape, buying canned food and preparing rags to stuff under their doors in case of a poison gas attack.

But many others appear to be doing very little, meeting the crisis with a mixture of nonchalance and resignation. For them, the main form of preparation seems to be buying U.S. dollars, considered the strongest currency around.

Hopes for a peaceful settlement of the crisis dimmed last week following failed talks in Geneva between Secretary of State

James Baker and Iraqi Foreign Minister Tariq Aziz.

"Inshallah," Arabic's equivalent of "God willing," now sums up the attitude among many in Gulf nations such as Saudi Arabia, Bahrain and the United Arab Emirates.

"A little plastic on my windows won't stop Saddam. It won't stop the Marines either," said Adnan Nowaid, an agricultural expert outside his apartment in Manama. "It is up to God, not me."

Civil defense preparations have gotten off to a shaky start.

When Bahrain, about 300 miles south of Iraq, tested its air-raid warning Saturday, many people in downtown Manama didn't hear it. The siren's whine started and failed and then started again.

A reporter who called the Civil Defense Bureau in Dubai, United Arab Emirates, was instructed on Sunday that the man in charge was napping at his desk and could not be disturbed.

Gas mask distribution in eastern Saudi Arabia, where the bulk of the U.S.-led multinational force is located, has been criticized as slow by some residents and foreigners.

Others have complained of receiving poor-quality masks.

Flights from the area remain booked through the end of January. Even planes to newly peaceful Beirut, Lebanon, were packed, airport officials said.

Speed is key to attack on Iraq

WASHINGTON — Ultimate victory over Saddam Hussein's troops in a Persian Gulf war would depend on how swiftly, and with what levels of devastation, U.S.-led forces can break down Iraqi resistance at the start, military experts say.

The first days, when massive U.S. air power would be sent against Iraq's missile sites and airfields, would be crucial, analysts say. A war dragging on for months would mean mounting American casualties, worldwide economic hardship and a greater risk of Saddam's surviving to fight again.

The optimists say Iraq can be crushed in days. Sen. Daniel Inouye, D-Hawaii, returned from a Gulf tour to proclaim, "If there is a war, it will be a short one that will last no more than five days." Taking a less sanguine view was Gen. H. Norman Schwarzkopf III, the U.S. field commander in the gulf, who cautioned that fighting could last for up to six months.

President Bush, who has stressed that Kuwait will not become another Vietnam, said he hoped "it would be over in a few days, but what happens realistically is hard to tell."

What is certain is that the war would start with savage air strikes against missile sites and airfields in hopes of preventing counterattacks against Saudi Arabia or Israel, followed by a blanket bombardment of supply and communications lines to isolate Iraq's troops in Kuwait.

Kuwait is 500 miles from supply bases in Baghdad, said retired Adm. Thomas Moorer, former chairperson of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, "and there is no Ho Chi Minh trail in Iraq, nowhere for trucks to hide."

Without a dependable supply line such as North Vietnam had during the Vietnam War, Iraqi forces in Kuwait, also under heavy air assault, would "deteriorate rapidly," Moorer said.

Aspin predicted that the Americans, facing a battered and demoralized foe, would suffer about 1,000 deaths in a short campaign, although other experts put the death toll far higher.

Retired Adm. Gene La Rocque, director of the Center for Defense Information and an outspoken foe of U.S. military action in the gulf, told Congress there would be 10,000 U.S. deaths in a six-month war with Iraq.

Here is a brief breakdown of the major components of the military forces confronting each other in the Persian Gulf:

Gulf crisis traced from invasion to failed peace talks

Here is a month-by-month chronology of the Persian Gulf crisis:

AUGUST

Iraq's army overruns Kuwait. President Bush orders U.S. economic embargo against Iraq; West European and Japanese governments follow suit. U.N. Security Council orders worldwide embargo on trade with Iraq. Bush deploys U.S. combat troops and warplanes to Saudi Arabia. Turkey cuts off exports from Iraqi oil pipeline through Turkish territory. Britain joins multinational force in Persian Gulf. Iraq closes borders to foreigners, trapping thousands of Americans and other Westerners in Iraq and Kuwait. Iraqi President Saddam Hussein says he is ready to resolve gulf crisis if Israel withdraws from territories it occupies. Bush calls up military reserves. Saddam offers to free all foreigners in Iraq and Kuwait if United States promises to withdraw its forces from Saudi Arabia and guarantee trade embargo will be lifted. Iraq announces it has moved Western hostages to military installations to use as human shields. U.N. Security Council authorizes military action to enforce economic embargo of Iraq.

SEPTEMBER

Bush asks Congress to write off Egypt's $7-billion debt in appreciation for help in the gulf. Iraq offers free oil to Third World countries. Iraqi soldiers move into French diplomatic compound in Kuwait. Iraq opens Kuwait's borders, and thousands of Kuwaitis attempt to flee.

Baghdad government seizes assets in Iraq owned by countries participating in embargo. U.N. Security Council members agree to extend embargo against Iraq to air corridors. Iraq orders expulsion of military attaches from all European Community countries.

OCTOBER

U.S. and Kuwaiti officials reject compromise under which Iraq would pull troops out of most of Kuwait. Oil prices drop below $30 a barrel. Iraqi forces in Kuwait wire the emirate's oil refineries with plastic explosives.

NOVEMBER

Eush likens Saddam to Hitler. Bush orders an additional 150,000 U.S. troops to the gulf. Iraq says it will never pull out of Kuwait, despite the U.S. reinforcement. Bush extends for an additional 90 days the 90-day call-up for reservists in the gulf.

Iraq says it will pour 250,000 more troops into Kuwait. U.S. Army and Marine Corps announce call-ups of 26,625 reserves. Bush, in the Mideast, meets Egypt's President Mubarak and Syria's President Assad on the crisis. Senate Armed Services Committee opens hearings on Bush's gulf policy. U.N. Security Council votes 12-2 to give

Overview of political positions

Iraq until Jan. 15 to pull its troops out of Kuwait, after which United States and its allies are free to use military force.

DECEMBER

Iraqi parliament endorses Saddam's decision to free thousands of Western hostages. Diplomats from U.S. Embassy in Kuwait leave occupied emirate. Iraq insists it will set a date for direct U.S.-Iraqi talks. European leaders put meeting with Iraq on hold after talks between Iraqi Foreign Minister Tariq Aziz and Bush are canceled.

Deputy U.S. field commander in gulf says his troops will not be ready to mount an offensive by Jan. 15. Saddam recalls Iraqi ambassadors for urgent consultations. He is quoted as saying Israel would be Iraq's first target if war breaks out.

JANUARY

Bush offers to send Baker to Geneva to meet Aziz in "one last attempt" at peace. Iraq agrees to talks. Saddam tells Iraqis to prepare for a long war, ruling out unconditional withdrawal from Kuwait. France says it will pursue its own peace initiative if the Geneva meeting fails. After six hours of talks with Aziz, Baker says he finds no Iraqi flexibility.

Hospitals prepare for war

by James Hannah
Associated Press writer

DAYTON, O. — The hospital at Wright-Patterson Air Force Base is prepared to treat U.S. soldiers wounded in fighting with Iraq and could be the first U.S. hospital many casualties see, military officials said Monday.

"Our mission is to be always prepared for this," said Maj. Ralph Charlip, spokesman for the U.S. Air Force Medical Center. "We're prepared. We always have the supplies."

Charlip said the hospital is the second largest in the Air Force, with 300 beds and plans for expansion if war breaks out. The largest hospital is Wilford Hall Medical Center in San Antonio, Texas.

Charlip said Pentagon policy requires casualties of any arm of the military to be sent to the hospital closest to their unit of assignment or their home of record.

"We're likely to get a lot of people who consider Ohio, Kentucky, West Virginia, Indiana and maybe Michigan as their home," Charlip said.

Charlip said open-heart surgery can be performed at the hospital, which also has an oxygen therapy that enables wounds to heal faster.

"We have the ability to care for just about everything," said

Charlip. "We have a full range of specialties."

Col. John Anderson, commander of the hospital, said there are several reasons why the base might be a main return point for the wounded: the base has a major airfield, it has the biggest military medical center in a 10-state region and it's close to about 130 civilian and Veterans Affairs hospitals in Ohio, Kentucky and Michigan.

The base also is near three major Veterans Administration medical centers in Dayton, Cincinnati and Louisville, Ky.

Gulf crisis traced from invasion to failed peace talks

Here is a month-by-month chronology of the Persian Gulf crisis:

AUGUST

Iraq's army overruns Kuwait. President Bush orders U.S. economic embargo against Iraq; West European and Japanese governments follow suit. U.N. Security Council orders worldwide embargo on trade with Iraq. Bush deploys U.S. combat troops and warplanes to Saudi Arabia. Turkey cuts off exports from Iraqi oil pipeline through Turkish territory. Britain joins multinational force in Persian Gulf. Iraq closes borders to foreigners, trapping thousands of Americans and other Westerners in Iraq and Kuwait. Iraqi President Saddam Hussein says he is ready to resolve gulf crisis if Israel withdraws from territories it occupies. Bush calls up military reserves. Saddam offers to free all foreigners in Iraq and Kuwait if United States promises to withdraw its forces from Saudi Arabia and guarantee trade embargo will be lifted. Iraq announces it has moved Western hostages to military installations to use as human shields. U.N. Security Council authorizes military action to enforce economic embargo of Iraq.

SEPTEMBER

Bush asks Congress to write off Egypt's $7-billion debt in appreciation for help in the gulf. Iraq offers free oil to Third World countries. Iraqi soldiers move into French diplomatic compound in Kuwait. Iraq opens Kuwait's borders, and thousands of Kuwaitis attempt to flee.

Baghdad government seizes assets in Iraq owned by countries participating in embargo. U.N. Security Council members agree to extend embargo against Iraq to air corridors. Iraq orders expulsion of military attaches from all European Community countries.

OCTOBER

U.S. and Kuwaiti officials reject compromise under which Iraq would pull troops out of most of Kuwait. Oil prices drop below $30 a barrel. Iraqi forces in Kuwait wire the emirate's oil refineries with plastic explosives.

NOVEMBER

Bush likens Saddam to Hitler. Bush orders an additional 150,000 U.S. troops to the gulf. Iraq says it will never pull out of Kuwait, despite the U.S. reinforcement. Bush extends for an additional 90 days the 90-day call-up for reservists in the gulf.

Iraq says it will pour 250,000 more troops into Kuwait. U.S. Army and Marine Corps announce call-ups of 26,625 reserves. Bush, in the Mideast, meets Egypt's President Mubarak and Syria's President Assad on the crisis. Senate Armed Services Committee opens hearings on Bush's gulf policy. U.N. Security Council votes 12-2 to give

Overview of political positions

Iraq until Jan. 15 to pull its troops out of Kuwait, after which United States and its allies are free to use military force.

DECEMBER

Iraqi parliament endorses Saddam's decision to free thousands of Western hostages. Diplomats from U.S. Embassy in Kuwait leave occupied emirate. Iraq insists it will set a date for direct U.S.-Iraqi talks. European leaders put meeting with Iraq on hold after talks between Iraqi Foreign Minister Tariq Aziz and Bush are canceled.

Deputy U.S. field commander in gulf says his troops will not be ready to mount an offensive by Jan. 15. Saddam recalls Iraqi ambassadors for urgent consultations. He is quoted as saying Israel would be Iraq's first target if war breaks out.

JANUARY

Bush offers to send Baker to Geneva to meet Aziz in "one last attempt" at peace. Iraq agrees to talks. Saddam tells Iraqis to prepare for a long war, ruling out unconditional withdrawal from Kuwait. France says it will pursue its own peace initiative if the Geneva meeting fails. After six hours of talks with Aziz, Baker says he finds no Iraqi flexibility.

Hospitals prepare for war

by James Hannah
Associated Press writer

DAYTON, O. — The hospital at Wright-Patterson Air Force Base is prepared to treat U.S. soldiers wounded in fighting with Iraq and could be the first U.S. hospital many casualties see, military officials said Monday.

"Our mission is to be always prepared for this," said Maj. Ralph Charlup, spokesman for the U.S. Air Force Medical Center. "We're prepared. We always have the supplies."

Charlip said the hospital is the second largest in the Air Force, with 300 beds and plans for expansion if war breaks out. The largest hospital is Wilford Hall Medical Center in San Antonio, Texas.

Charlip said Pentagon policy requires casualties of any arm of the military to be sent to the hospital closest to their unit of assignment or their home of record.

"We're likely to get a lot of people who consider Ohio, Kentucky, West Virginia, Indiana and maybe Michigan as their home," Charlip said.

Charlip said open-heart surgery can be performed at the hospital, which also has an oxygen therapy that enables wounds to heal faster.

"We have the ability to care for just about everything," said

Charlip. "We have a full range of specialties."

Col. John Anderson, commander of the hospital, said there are several reasons why the base might be a main return point for the wounded: the base has a major airfield, it has the biggest military medical center in a 10-state region and it's close to about 130 civilian and Veterans Affairs hospitals in Ohio, Kentucky and Michigan.

The base also is near three major Veterans Administration medical centers in Dayton, Cincinnati and Louisville, Ky.

Tempers flare at USG assembly

Student to run for Ward 1; Coughlin attacked for overspending

by Robert Davidson
staff writer

An undergraduate student announced his candidacy Monday night for a Ward 1 council seat and members of the Undergraduate Student Government criticized their president in a heated assembly.

Sophomore Scott Ziance announced to USG he will seek the city council seat independent of student government, hoping to garner support from the assembly already split along party lines.

"I will not ask for the support of USG as a group," Ziance said. He does, however, want the support of the senators as individuals. USG should not act as a political party, he said.

"I hope USG will not support another student [for the Ward 1 seat]," Ziance said.

Ziance said his candidacy for Ward 1 as an independent would help ease current dissension in USG and that the backing of a candidate by the group was bound to run along party lines and cause further conflict.

"I have not decided whether I will seek support of either or both political parties in the spring or run as an independent in the fall," Ziance said.

USG President Kevin Coughlin had planned to sponsor a student to contest the seat held by faculty member Jim Davidson.

Trouble within the student body surfaced at the meeting when College Republican Roger McCarthy accused Coughlin of acting outside the bounds of the USG constitution.

Allegations focused on Coughlin's misuse of USG funds. McCarthy said Coughlin repeatedly had exceeded the $50 limit per expense he is authorized to use without allocation by the assembly.

Coughlin was rebuked when he attempted to respond to the accusations.

USG senator David Rice pounded on a table and said Coughlin was responding out of order.

He also called for a continuation of assembly business.

Later Coughlin said the "accusations are pretty serious, but none are true."

He said he would officially respond later in the week.

Among other business in the assembly, a bill designed to reduce partisanship within USG was introduced and failed.

The bill's main purpose was to remove the College Republican seat from USG.

USG senator and College Democrats President Chris Redfern was unhappy with the bill's failure.

He said the Democrats will not rest until equally represented, as they now do not hold a seat on USG.

Another senator said the College Democrats did not apply for a seat until last year and the College Republicans should be permitted to complete the two year contract they have for a USG seat.

Exploding juice recalled

Tropicana Sparklers spoiled during bottling

by Kim Fenicle
staff writer

Tropicana Sparklers, carbonated juice drinks sold in University cafeterias, are doing more than sparkling — they are exploding.

At the University, all of the Tropicana Sparklers have been recalled.

"We are sending all ours back to our supplier," Jane Schimpf, director of Food Operations, said. The problem with the fruit drinks stemmed from a malfunction in bottling. Due to faulty bottling, spoilage occurred, causing the bottles to pop, said Terry Holloway, Tropicana spokesperson.

Students who purchased this carbonated beverage before or after Christmas break may return the product, Schimpf said.

"Students can turn them back in for credit or a cash refund," Schimpf added.

On Friday, January 11, Holloway said Tropicana received about six calls from consumers about the exploding drinks.

A minor cut on one person's arm was the only injury reported to Tropicana from the exploding drinks, Holloway said.

"We've identified the problem, and now we're dealing with it," Holloway said.

A voluntary withdrawal of this product now is in effect across the nation.

Concerned consumers can call the Tropicana Hotline at 1-800-247-1700. Consumers will be told what to do with the product and will be given a refund.

"We should have new products out within two weeks," Holloway said.

Schimpf said new Sparklers should be available at the University in three to four weeks.

There have been no injuries reported on campus, however, consumers are told to be careful.

According to Holloway, anyone wishing to dispose of the product should cover the cap with a towel, point the top away from themselves and others, slowly release the pressure and dispose of the product.

University officials also were not optimistic about higher education funding in the upcoming 1991-92 and 1992-93 budgets, which Voinovich will submit in mid-March.

"It's always difficult to know this far in advance," said Mason, who serves as the University's representative to the state legislature. "The rumors indicate that there is no reason to be optimistic. Obviously the legislature will have some tough decisions to make."

Dalton called next year's budget, "a looming cloud on the horizon."

Boiler blast injures two

Accident damages gameroom, restaurant

by Charles Toit
editorial editor

TONTOGANY — Two people were hospitalized in an explosion at Doc's Restaurant Friday, which sent a lunch crowd rushing into the streets at about 12:30 p.m.

The explosion, which centered in an adjoining gameroom, blew out a door connected to the restaurant which, at the time, had an estimated 30-35 patrons.

"I thought it was a bomb going off," bartender Linda Namron said. "After it happened, everyone started piling out through the front door."

The explosion was believed to be caused by a faulty boiler in the gameroom, but Tonto-gany Fire Chief Bud Gill said Monday tests still are being done to determine the cause of the explosion.

"We're pretty sure it was a malfunction of the boiler," Gill said.

The restaurant area basically was undamaged by the explosion, while the gameroom, another seating area and the former post office connected to the restaurant received the worst damage.

The back wall was pushed out and windows in the front and the back were shattered.

Injured in the blast were patrons Tracy Columer and John Gibson. Both were treated and then taken to Wood County Hospital by the local EMS unit located next door to Doc's.

Columer was transferred from intensive care to recovery Saturday afternoon. He was reported in stable condition.

Paramedic and University student Matt Asmus said he and paramedic Craig McCracken found Columer face down and conscious a few minutes after the blast.

Columer suffered a laceration to the chest and a fractured left forearm.

Gibson was standing in front of the restaurant when he was thrown on to the hood of a car. Gibson was treated and released from the hospital at 3:30 p.m. Friday.

Doc's co-owner Al Eluer said he plans on rebuilding the gameroom within the next couple of months.

BG News/Todd Swanson

One local man was admitted to intensive care after a boiler exploded at Doc's restaurant in Tontogany, five miles northwest of Bowling Green. Tracy Columer was reportedly the only person in the gameroom in Friday's explosion. Columer has since been released from intensive care. The blast was heard as far as two miles away.

Peace

War jitters drove oil prices up more than $4 a barrel to $30.25 in early trading in London.

In Baghdad, members of Iraq's National Assembly shouted that they were willing to back Saddam "with our blood, our souls, we are ready to sacrifice for Saddam." At the Iraqi president's urging, the legislature voted in August to absorb Kuwait and last month approved the release of all foreign hostages.

The assembly has voted to give

Saddam full authority over the gulf crisis.

Assembly speaker Saadi Mehdi Saleh called Saddam "the knight of the Arab nation" and said the nation was behind him in his showdown with "U.S. imperialism, Zionism and Arab stooges."

"We declare here and now that we are ready to sacrifice everything for the cause of Palestine.

Palestine should be liberated and rights of Palestinians restored," he said.

"A last-minute initiative is now up to the Americans because they are the ones now raising the slogan of war," Saddam said Sunday.

After meeting with Mitterrand, Perez de Cuellar said: "The hope that I had is already gone. I'm a diplomat, but as you can see, I'm going to be honest and direct." He then flew to New York, where he told reporters: "It is perhaps too late to embark on anything new." But in Paris Monday, there were reports President Chadli Bendjedid of Algeria was about to leave on a Middle East peace mission. Diplomatic sources said it was rumored that Bendjedid might go to Iraq or Saudi Arabia.

"We should have new products out within two weeks," Holloway said.

Schimpf said new Sparklers should be available at the University in three to four weeks.

There have been no injuries reported on campus, however, consumers are told to be careful.

According to Holloway, anyone wishing to dispose of the product should cover the cap with a towel, point the top away from themselves and others, slowly release the pressure and dispose of the product.

PARSONS SCHOOL OF DESIGN

Special Summer Programs

PARSONS IN PARIS June 29-August 12

Paint on the Left Bank, explore prehistoric caves in the Dordogne, visit the masterpieces of renaissance art in Tuscany. Courses include painting, drawing, art history and the liberal arts. Students may choose to spend the last two weeks of the program in the Dordogne or Cortona, Italy.

PHOTOGRAPHY IN PARIS June 29-July 29

Study both the aesthetics and the craft of photography in the city that has inspired great photographers for 150 years. Guest lecturers and visits to Parisian galleries supplement the curriculum.

FASHION IN PARIS June 29-July 29

Study the history and contemporary trends of French fashion design through visits to Parisian museums and costume collections. Guest lecturers and visits to design studios and retail outlets are part of the program, as are daily classes in fashion illustration.

HISTORY OF ARCHITECTURE & DECORATIVE ARTS IN PARIS June 29-July 29

Offered in collaboration with the renowned Musée des Arts Décoratifs, this program focuses on the history of French architecture and European decorative arts. Excursions to points outside of Paris are included; last summer, students visited Versailles, Vaux le Vicomte and Fontainebleau.

MODERN PARIS June 29-July 29

Combining architectural history with drawing, this program focuses on the development of Paris in the modern period (1830 to the present).

PALEOLITHIC ART & ARCHAEOLOGY OF THE DORDOGNE July 28-August 12

Daily class sessions near the town of Les Eyzies de Tayac, in southwestern France, are devoted to lectures and guided visits to the area's famous and less well-known prehistoric caves, living sites and archaeological excavations.

HISTORY OF ARCHITECTURE IN ITALY June 29-July 28

The architectural heritage of Italy is studied in Rome, Florence and Venice, where on-site presentations are made by Parsons faculty.

HISTORY OF ARCHITECTURE & DECORATIVE ARTS IN GREAT BRITAIN July 5-August 4

This four-week curriculum, covering the years 1600-1900, is offered in London, with several excursions to nearby towns and country houses.

PARSONS IN WEST AFRICA MALI: July 2-July 24

Workshops in ceramics and fibers will introduce students to artists and artisans in several Ivory Coast villages, where these crafts can be studied in their original context. A photography curriculum examines techniques of documentation and reportage in regions of great natural beauty and cultural diversity. The history of African art and architecture also is offered. A separate curriculum in Mali is available.

All programs include round trip airfare, accommodations and land transfers. Academic credit is available to qualified students. For more information, please return the coupon or call:

Boiler blast injures two

Accident damages gameroom, restaurant

by Charles Toit
editorial editor

TONTOGANY — Two people were hospitalized in an explosion at Doc's Restaurant Friday, which sent a lunch crowd rushing into the streets at about 12:30 p.m.

The explosion, which centered in an adjoining gameroom, blew out a door connected to the restaurant which, at the time, had an estimated 30-35 patrons.

"I thought it was a bomb going off," bartender Linda Namron said. "After it happened, everyone started piling out through the front door."

The explosion was believed to be caused by a faulty boiler in the gameroom, but Tonto-gany Fire Chief Bud Gill said Monday tests still are being done to determine the cause of the explosion.

"We're pretty sure it was a malfunction of the boiler," Gill said.

The restaurant area basically was undamaged by the explosion, while the gameroom, another seating area and the former post office connected to the restaurant received the worst damage.

The back wall was pushed out and windows in the front and the back were shattered.

Injured in the blast were patrons Tracy Columer and John Gibson. Both were treated and then taken to Wood County Hospital by the local EMS unit located next door to Doc's.

Columer was transferred from intensive care to recovery Saturday afternoon. He was reported in stable condition.

Paramedic and University student Matt Asmus said he and paramedic Craig McCracken found Columer face down and conscious a few minutes after the blast.

Columer suffered a laceration to the chest and a fractured left forearm.

Gibson was standing in front of the restaurant when he was thrown on to the hood of a car. Gibson was treated and released from the hospital at 3:30 p.m. Friday.

Doc's co-owner Al Eluer said he plans on rebuilding the gameroom within the next couple of months.

BG News/Todd Swanson

One local man was admitted to intensive care after a boiler exploded at Doc's restaurant in Tontogany, five miles northwest of Bowling Green. Tracy Columer was reportedly the only person in the gameroom in Friday's explosion. Columer has since been released from intensive care. The blast was heard as far as two miles away.

Peace

War jitters drove oil prices up more than $4 a barrel to $30.25 in early trading in London.

In Baghdad, members of Iraq's National Assembly shouted that they were willing to back Saddam "with our blood, our souls, we are ready to sacrifice for Saddam." At the Iraqi president's urging, the legislature voted in August to absorb Kuwait and last month approved the release of all foreign hostages.

The assembly has voted to give

Saddam full authority over the gulf crisis.

Assembly speaker Saadi Mehdi Saleh called Saddam "the knight of the Arab nation" and said the nation was behind him in his showdown with "U.S. imperialism, Zionism and Arab stooges."

"We declare here and now that we are ready to sacrifice everything for the cause of Palestine."

Palestine should be liberated and rights of Palestinians restored," he said.

"A last-minute initiative is now up to the Americans because they are the ones now raising the slogan of war," Saddam said Sunday.

After meeting with Mitterrand, Perez de Cuellar said: "The hope that I had is already gone. I'm a diplomat, but as you can see, I'm going to be honest and direct." He then flew to New York, where he told reporters: "It is perhaps too late to embark on anything new." But in Paris Monday, there were reports President Chadli Bendjedid of Algeria was about to leave on a Middle East peace mission. Diplomatic sources said it was rumored that Bendjedid might go to Iraq or Saudi Arabia.

■Police received a report of breaking and entering in the 700 block of Sixth Street. Nothing was stolen but several things in the apartment were moved around.

Four suspected in vandalism

Four juveniles and their parents may have to pay thousands of dollars in damages after the boys allegedly shot BB pellets through the windows of 73 cars during the weekend.

The four, who have not yet been charged, were occupants in a car which was stopped by a BG city police officer early Sunday morning.

The driver of the car — who did not have a driver's license — and the other occupants were asked if they knew anything about the recent vandalism of several cars in the area.

The officer then saw several BB shells on the floor of the car and took them as evidence.

After being taken to the police station for questioning, two of the juveniles reportedly admitted shooting out car windows in the city and implicated the two other boys.

A girl was also in the car, but was not with the others when the vandalism occurred.

Owners of damaged vehicles should have repairs made and send a copy of the bill to the city prosecutor's office, according to the police report.

Parents of the juveniles could be forced to pay "several thousands of dollars" in damages, Police Chief Galen Ash said.

Governor

A. Rhodes, 82, under whom Voinovich served as lieutenant governor before resigning in 1978 to run for mayor, heaped praise on his one-time partner.

"Excellent," he said of Voinovich's speech. "He laid the groundwork for jobs and education," Rhodes said.

Celeste also was complimentary, but indicated he disagreed with Voinovich's projection of a $2 billion deficit.

"He's got $300 million in the bank," Celeste said of the state's current "rainy-day" fund. Celeste conceded that a sagging national economy may have a major impact on Ohio.

Falcons use defense to rip Central

Venable's 27 provide offense for BG's third-straight victory

by Matt Schroder
sports editor

Scouting the men's basketball team must be as challenging as trying to defeat it on the court.

The Falcons' earned their latest win, a 72-57 shellacking of Central Michigan at Anderson Arena, without using two weapons Chippewas' head coach Charlie Coles feared after watching the films.

Bowling Green won Saturday without employing its traps on defense. Also missing were the services of dangerous scorer Billy Johnson, who head coach Jim Larranaga said, sat out due to a "coaching decision."

What the Falcons did use was muscle on the boards, pinpoint second half shooting, and a brilliant performance by Clinton Venable to improve their record to 8-5 overall, 3-1 in the Mid-American Conference.

Despite not having to resort to constant trapping, the BG defense forced 14 turnovers and held Central to 46 percent shooting from the floor.

"We have preached and repeated over and over again that defense wins," Larranaga said. "You do what you have to do defensively to control the game."

"Our man-to-man today was excellent. The key to the ball game was we played good defense for 40 minutes," the coach added.

The offense wasn't too shabby either.

Venable hit nine of 18 from the floor and two three-pointers and led all scorers with 27 points. It was the fifth time this season Venable led the team.

"In the last three games and throughout practice, (Venable) has been extremely consistent, which is really what you're looking for," Larranaga said. "He's playing with a great sense of control, following directions very well, and the result is we're functioning well as a team."

"We've known all along if we practice well, we'll play well. Sometimes I have to take my time in order to run the offense a little better," Venable said of his uncharacteristic six turnovers.

Bowling Green finished with a 37-24 rebounding advantage which meant the Chippewas were not earning too many second shots on offense.

Forward Tom Hall grabbed a game-high 10 boards and added seven points coming off the bench to spark the team. Hall's best game statistically came Dec. 14 against Alabama State when he scored 17 points and claimed 11 rebounds.

"You know who I hate to see coming into the game that's Tom Hall," Coles said. "He may be the best sixth man in the conference."

Back-up forward Derek Kizer also helped the Falcons' cause with six points and a rebound in 10 minutes.

Despite losing by 15, CMU played BG virtually even in the first half. The Chippewas went into the locker room trailing 29-26, and finished the initial 20 minutes with two easy shots under the hoop.

But whatever momentum they had evaporated quickly into the Anderson Arena rafters as the Falcons began the second half on fire. In the first 2:20, BG outscored the visitors 10-2, and kept rolling from there.

"We started getting very impatient at the offensive end and BG came out for the second half and pretty much said, 'it's over with,'" Coles said.

Bowling Green's largest lead of the game was at the nine minute mark when Michael Huger fed Hall for a layup which put the Falcons up 58-39. But the game's most spectacular play came 40 seconds before that.

Joe Moore went flying out of bounds to save the ball and hurled it blindly over his head to Hall, who was standing at the three-point arc. Looking for someone to pass to, Hall found Moore slashing underneath the basket for a two-handed slam dunk. Moore finished with 13 points and four assists.

"What we're doing well right now is practicing hard, getting good bench production, and taking one game at a time," Larranaga said. "Our defense is creating opportunities for the offense and the intensity is there."

BG News/Greg Horvath

Falcon senior point guard Clinton Venable goes airborne for two of his game-high 27 points in Saturday's win over Central Michigan. He was nine-of-18 from the floor and seven-of-eight from the foul line.

Women's basketball falls to YSU

YOUNGSTOWN — The women's basketball team gained its first lead of the second half when forward Judit Lendvay drove the lane at 9:38.

But it didn't last long.

Youngstown State outscored the Falcons 25-3 the rest of the way to win 76-55 Monday night.

BG dropped its third straight game and now stands 6-9. YSU improves to 14-2.

The Penguins scored nine of the last 11 points of the first half to take a 38-31 lead into the locker room. A six-point lead by Youngstown was the biggest previous margin.

Diane Rappach (15 points) and Jenny Robinson accounted for 28 of Youngstown's 38 points in the first half while Andrea Nordmann's nine points led the Falcons.

Both teams shot less than 40 percent from the field in the first 20 minutes.

The Falcons slowly worked on the Penguins' lead in the second half, catching the host school at 10:18 on a pair of free throws by freshman Talita Scott.

A Lendvay field goal 40 seconds later gave the Falcons their first lead since early in the opening half.

But BG would go over six minutes without scoring again while Youngstown was scoring 16 unanswered points for a 67-52 lead. A Susie Cassell free throw at 3:34 broke Youngstown's string, but the damage had already been done.

BG would manage just one field goal the rest of the way.

Nordmann, the only BG player in double figures, led the Falcons with 13 points and 11 rebounds. Rappach led Youngstown with 22, including four three-point field goals, while Robinson finished with 19.

BG held YSU's leading scorer, Margaret Somple, to just seven points.

BG shot just 33.8 percent from the floor in the game.

Saturday at home against Central Michigan, the women's team lost 72-60, falling to 2-2 in the Mid-American Conference.

Traci Gorman had the hot hand for the Falcons, going eight-for-14 from the floor (19 points).

Cassell, Nordmann, and Lendvay also hit double figures in a losing cause.

Central's Suzy Merchant and Sue Nissen were too much for BG as the pair combined for 39 points, 16 rebounds, seven assists, and four steals.

The Falcons were again outshot, as the Chippewas converted 53 percent of its field goals to BG's 41 percent.

CMU stayed atop the MAC at 3-0, and boast an 11-2 record overall.

The Falcons will take Wednesday off and travel to Eastern Michigan Saturday to take on the Hurons.

Unlikely players duke it out on ice

Ali-Frazier?...BG's Martin Jiranek and LSSU's Jimmy Dowd might have been the last two players expected to duke it out during a game, but that's exactly what happened in Friday's game — sort of.

With four ticks left on the clock, Jiranek and Dowd stood each other up near the scorers table away from the play. Both players struggled at arm's length from each other, but whether a punch was thrown or not nobody knows.

After the linesmen broke up the fight, both players were handed game disqualification penalties. As a result, both had to sit out Saturday's game.

"I wasn't going to throw a punch until he was and I think he was waiting for the same thing," Jiranek said. "Neither one of us are fighters and neither one of us wanted to get kicked out of the game."

LSSU head coach Jeff Jackson saw it in a similar way.

"I thought it was a ridiculous call," he said. "Taking two very good offense players who probably haven't gotten anything but a minor penalty in their careers is a joke. I thought it was a disgrace."

Hot Lakers...BG isn't the only team LSSU has been beating. The Lakers are on a neat streak of 11-0-1. They haven't lost since their 4-1 setback at Ferris State on Nov. 24.

The Lakers are now 17-0-1 when leading after two period this season and 145-5-6 when leading after two since the start of the 1984-85 season.

LSSU also outshot the Falcons 62-40 in the series, including 35-14 Friday night. Thus far, it has proven to be one of the Lakers' strongest areas. They lead the CCHA with an outstanding .74 goals against average.

In the series, the Lakers weren't greedy, spreading the 12 goals around to nine different players. Saturday, all six goals were scored by different players.

The Lakers have beaten the Falcons five straight times dating back to their 4-2 win over BG in the CCHA Semi-Finals at Joe Louis Arena last March.

Where's Matt?...Senior assistant captain Matt Ruchty was benched for the second time in two weeks by York because of questionable penalties.

Saturday, Ruchty was sent off the ice midway through the second period after being sent to the box for a vicious slashing penalty as the Lakers' John Hendry knocked in the team's first goal.

"He has to be accountable for what he does," York said. "I thought it was a poor reflection of our team. You got to handle frustration. He did not handle frustration."

Penalty shot...BG's Peter Holmes attempted the Falcons' second penalty shot of the season after an LSSU defenseman was called for knocking the net off its magnets during a goal-mouth scramble.

Holmes went straight in and decided to take a direct shot to LSSU's Darrin Madeley glove side. Madeley picked off the puck to stop the score.

"I was scared to death as he was coming down," Madeley said. "I waited for him to make his move and he shot it to the glove and I'm glad he did."

"I knew I was going to go upstairs the whole way down, but I didn't shoot it very well," Holmes said. "I shot it right into his glove."

Brett Harkins attempted the Falcons' only other penalty shot this season against Miami. He was also stopped.

Compiled by BG News editorial editor Charles Toil.

Icers drop pair to Lake Superior

by Charles Toil
editorial editor

Fifty minutes of solid play might be good enough for the hockey team to squeak out victories against teams of lesser talent.

But Saturday night against the No. 1 team in the nation, Lake Superior, it was only good enough to keep the sparse crowd of 3,385 fans around for the final buzzer.

The result was a 6-3 Laker victory, completing a weekend and series sweep of the Falcons and sending BG to its longest losing streak (8) in school history. Friday night, the Lakers hammered out a 6-2 triumph in front of 2,695 spectators at the Ice Arena.

The losses drop BG (11-13-2, 9-11-2 in the CCHA) into a fifth-place tie with Western Michigan in the Central Collegiate Hockey Association. LSSU (20-3-2, 17-2-3) remains alone in first place. The Lakers have gone 11-0-1 since its last setback at Ferris State on Nov. 24.

The longest BG losing streak prior to this was seven games set four times. The most current streak occurred during 1979-80 season, Jerry York's first year at the helm. After 26 games the previous two seasons, the Falcons were 16-10.

"We have to be patient. We're talented, but we have a ways to go in a lot of different areas," York said. "The puck was bouncing our way the first half of the year and maybe it hid some of inexperience and youth. We're rebuilding. We knew that early."

It might have been that lack of experience that hurt BG the most when they seemed to fall apart late in the game. The Lakers broke open a 2-2 tie midway through the third period when Tim Breslin's wrap around shot from the right side crossed in front of the net to an open Clayton Beddoes who deposited his seventh goal of the season at the 8:45 mark.

Breslin's goal seemed to take some of the life out of the Falcons and less than a minute later the Lakers were on the board again when Doug Weight knocked in his twelfth of the season on a turnaround shot from the left circle.

Dan Bylsma's fifth redlighter of the season pulled BG back within one with nine minutes to play, but Paul Constantine's blue-line shot past Angelo Libertucci two minutes later ended any hopes for a Falcon comeback.

"We had a game plan to go by and we really didn't execute it in the first two periods," LSSU head coach Jeff Jackson said. "It's very hard to implement a system with so many penalties."

"We're a good five-on-five team. That's when we're at our best."

Both teams were penalized heavily in the first two periods (BG 9, LSSU 10), but neither team was whistled in the crucial third period.

Despite all the penalties, both teams failed miserably on the power play. LSSU was only 1-7 (2-12 in the series), while BG sputtered through an 0-7 (1-12) performance.

For the season, the Falcons are converting on only .201 of their power plays. "We're not quite as sharp or as smart with the puck as we should be," York said.

LSSU came out clicking on their power play in Friday's contest when Jeff Napierala (17 goals-15 assists-32 points) scored a 1:11 into the game. BG's Glen Mears was called for a tripping penalty 12 seconds into the game.

Constantine added another score later in the first giving the Lakers a 2-0 lead entering the second period.

Matt Ruchty (9-12-21) scored BG's first goal early in the second period and Brett Harkins' (18-25-43) tying goal just 3:55 into the third period inserted some lost energy into the team and the crowd.

But that would be as close as the Falcons would get. LSSU defenseman Karl Johnston knocked in a backhand shot through Libertucci four minutes later on a four-on-four and it was all but over.

Similar to Saturday's game, the third goal seemed to deflate the Falcons as LSSU took command and knocked in three more less than spectacular scores.

"Their third, fourth and fifth goals I would term as soft goals," York said. "They really didn't have to earn them. We kind of just gave them goals and that broke open what was really a tight game."

The Falcons haven't won since Dec. 8 against North Dakota. And, the road doesn't get much easier with second-place Michigan on schedule for next weekend.

"We're all positive and we know we can do it," sophomore Ken Klee said about turning around the streak. "We have to take it one game at a time whether we're winning or losing. If they're the best team in the country, we're right there."

BG sophomore right winger Rick Mullins fights off Lake Superior State's Karl Johnston for the loose puck. The Falcons dropped a two-game set with the Lakers over the weekend.

Kent State to join CCHA next season

MAC names week's best

NASHVILLE, TENN.—In a vote taken by CCHA Council (Athletic Directors and Faculty Representatives from member institutions) at the Annual NCAA Convention, Kent State University was unanimously approved as the 10th member of the Central Collegiate Hockey Association.

The Golden Flashes will begin play in the CCHA for the 1992-93 season. CCHA Council Chair Dean Davenport said KSU will be a "positive influence on the CCHA having a competitive program in place already."

"Kent State paid the highest membership fee ($100,000) for a Division I NCAA Hockey admission in NCAA history," CCHA Commissioner Bill Beagan said.

Beagan stated that Kent's membership fee bodes well for the credibility of Division I NCAA college hockey and the commitment to hockey behind Kent's application for membership in the CCHA.

The CCHA is now comprised of schools from the Mid-American Conference (four), Big Ten (three), Great Lakes Intercollegiate Conference (two) and Association of Mid-Century Universities (one).

TOLEDO (AP) — Ball State guard Emanuel Cross and Ohio University guard Laura Reding have been selected as the Mid-American Conference players of the week.

Cross, a 6-foot-1 senior from Chicago, totaled 43 points, four rebounds, seven assists and three steals as Ball State won twice last week. He had 21 points in Ball State's wins over Kent State and Slippery Rock. He made 14 of 24 field goal attempts and 11 of 13 free throws in the two games.

Reding, a 5-9 senior from Granville, totaled 58 points, 15 rebounds, eight assists and five steals in two games last week. She scored 29 points in OU's 77-66 victory over Bowling Green and had 29 points again in an 81-78 loss at Eastern Michigan Saturday. She made 21 of 29 field goal attempts and 14 of 17 free throws in the two games.

Columnist digs up old NFL records

by Jim Litke
AP sports writer

NEW YORK (AP) — What little Dorothy kept repeating on her way out of Oz has become a kind of mantra for the NFL: There's no place like home. There's no place like home. There's no place like home.

It seems clear now that the regular season could have been called off the moment each of the league's four surviving teams — the 49ers, Giants, Bills and Raiders — clinched the home field for the duration of the playoffs.

The stumbling and bumbling and grumbling that beset that quartet in the weeks that followed filled reporters' notebooks and yielded some much-needed footage for somebody else's highlight films. But the truth is, they already had what they wanted most.

"Some kind of letdown at the end of the (regular) season is inevitable," Chicago linebacker Ron Rivera said after the Bears were hammered 31-3 Sunday by the Giants. "You play with such intensity for the 11 or 12 weeks it takes to get the home-field advantage, then you spend the rest of the time trying to adjust to whatever cards you're dealt."

"I'm not saying that us being home would have had any bearing on this game," he added. "But I sure would have liked to find out."

How difficult is it to win on the road come playoff time? The best indicator might be the fact that 56 wild card teams have been shuffled into the playoff deck since 1970, and since then exactly one — the 1980 Oakland Raiders — has won the Super Bowl. Over the past 15 years, a wild-card team has reached the Super Bowl every five years — X, XV and XX, for those of you scoring by Roman numerals — but with Washington and Miami getting bounced this weekend, none will make it to XXV.

And it does not figure to get any easier. As if the homebodies needed another advantage, when the NFL added a third wild-card entrant in each conference earlier this year, it balanced the number of games in the tournament by giving the two divisional winners with the best records in each conference two weeks off.

By any measure, the Giants vs. Bears figured to be the closest of the four matchups offered and just the opposite turned out to be true.

Falcon gymnasts defeat Flashes at Eppler North

The gymnastics team opened its season on a successful note with a 181.25 - 176.25 victory over Kent State on Sunday at Eppler North.

Junior Julie Zickles led the Falcons in the all-around competition with a score of 36.25 (career best) while sophomore Robin Wall and junior Mary Beth Friel posted scores of 36.15 and 35.95, respectively.

BG secured the top three spots in the meet.

Senior Kim Crawford captured the vault with a 9.40 showing. Friel finished second with a 9.25, freshman Carrie Lambdin took third with a 9.15 mark, next was Zickles' 9.05, and freshman Jenny Nacca finished in a fifth place tie with Wall (9.00).

On the uneven bars, Wall took meet honors with a 9.20. Zickles turned in the next highest mark (8.95, fifth place), followed by junior Kathy Altonen with 8.80, and sophomore Stacy Davis' 8.5 (career best).

Leading the way for the Falcons on the balance beam were Friel with a 9.25, senior Nikki Condon and Wall, each with a 9.20, and Crawford and Zickles, who both scored a 9.0.

In the floor exercise, Condon, Friel, and Zickles finished with scores of 9.25, good for a share of third place.

BG, 1-0, travels to Kentucky on Friday for a 7:30 p.m. meet before returning home to host Michigan on Jan. 25 at 6:30 p.m.

Men's tennis team back from tourney

The men's tennis team recently completed action in the Milwaukee Tennis Classic XVI at the Healthfare Tennis Center on Jan. 8-9. The tournament was hosted by Marquette.

Competing for the Falcons were seniors Doug Dickinson, Mike Teets and Steve Mudre, sophomores Justin Overholser and Jay Adler, and freshmen Jeff Huffman, Jim Snyder, Richard Watson, and Todd Koehler.

Teets and Watson were the only BG players to capture opening-round. Teets downed Matt Tobin of Marquette (4-6, 6-0, 7-5) on Jan. 8, but was eliminated by Ferris State's Paul Marcum (6-2, 6-1) on Jan. 9.

Watson defeated MU's Mike Cavillo (6-0, 6-1) on Jan. 8 and then bested Kevin Hinkle of Wisconsin-Green Bay (6-4, 6-4) on Jan. 9 before losing to Arkansas' Marcus Hilpert (7-6, 7-5) later in the day.

The Falcons next action is at the Ft. Wayne Invitational on Jan. 18-20.

AP names Montana Male Athlete of Year

by John Nelson
AP sports writer

NEW YORK — While the San Francisco 49ers are trying to Threepeat as Super Bowl champions, their quarterback, Joe Montana, has repeated as The Associated Press Male Athlete of the Year.

Montana became the fifth athlete to win the award twice and the fourth to win it consecutively, edging out Texas Rangers pitcher Nolan Ryan in balloting announced Monday by the AP.

Last week, Montana was named the NFL's Most Valuable Player for the second straight season by the AP.

Montana, 34, who passed for 274 yards and two touchdowns in San Francisco's 28-10 playoff victory over Washington on Saturday, received 33 of a possible 138 first-place votes and 259 points.

"He's special," former 49ers center Randy Cross said. "He has an aura about him. It's an air. O.J. had it. Namath, Staubach, Graham, Luckman, guys like that. With Joe, you almost felt if every game were a Super Bowl, you'd be undefeated. It's almost not fair. He's never played a huge game that he hasn't won."

Ryan, 43, who surpassed 5,000 career strikeouts and pitched his sixth no-hitter last season, had more first-place

"He's special. He has an aura about him...With Joe, you almost felt if every game was a Super Bowl, you'd be undefeated."

—Randy Cross, former 49er's center votes (36) but wound up with 254 points. Wayne Gretzky of the Los Angeles Kings was a distant third with 11 first-place votes and 104 points.

AP-member sports writers and broadcasters were asked to vote for three athletes, with a first-place vote worth five points, second three and third one.

Montana, who already has led the 49ers to four Super Bowl titles, is the first man since sprinter Carl Lewis to win consecutively. Lewis won the award in 1983 and '84. Also two-time winners are pitcher Sandy Koufax (1963-65), golfer Byron Nelson (1944-45) and tennis player Don Budge (1937-38).

Montana is the 12th football player to win the award, although none other than Montana has won it since O.J. Simpson in 1973. The award, initiated in 1931, has gone to baseball players 22 times.

Montana started his career with the 49ers in 1979. Since then, he has been the Super Bowl MVP three times, last year setting Super Bowl records with 13 consecutive completions and five touchdown passes in a 55-10 victory over Denver last year. He has thrown for 34,998 yards and 242 touchdowns in his career.

This season, he led the 49ers to a 14-2 record and was the league's seventh-leading passer with an 89.0 rating, one year after setting an NFL record with a 112.4 rating. He led the NFC with a completion rate of 61.7 percent, threw 26 touchdown passes, and set a club record with 3,944 passing yards.

Last August, Montana signed a four-year contract extension through the 1994 season, when he will have played 16 seasons in the NFL. "I've played for so long it's actually part of my life," Montana once said. "... Eventually, it's going to be over, and when it is over, there is no coming back to it."

Rose begins 1,000 hours of service at grade school

by John Nolan
AP Writer

CINCINNATI — Pete Rose went to school today to begin serving a court-ordered community service sentence as a gym teacher's aide.

The former Cincinnati Reds manager showed up at Heberle Elementary School wearing sunglasses, blue jeans and running shoes shortly after students reported for school.

Rose, 49, must do 1,000 hours of community service as part of his sentence for cheating on his income taxes.

Asked if he expected the job to be fun, Rose said, "Yeah, it will be a fun job."

Rose, baseball's all-time hits leader, is working rotating assignments at Heberle and four other inner-city elementary schools until the end of the school year.

He is living at Talbert House, a

Cincinnati halfway house to which he was released Jan. 7 after serving five months in the federal prison camp in Marion, Ill.

"Obviously, the next three months will be a lot more fun than the last five," Rose said last week. "I'm really looking forward to working with the kids. I have a thousand hours and I think I can do something for the kids. I'm going to do these thousand hours to the best of my ability and turn the page on this."

Rose's assignments at the school will be determined by gym teachers.

Asked what he would tell the youngsters, Rose said, "I didn't make it up, but I like, 'Get high on sports, don't get high on drugs.'"

After the school year ends, Rose is to complete his community service by working with boys and girls at a Cincinnati recreation center in a low-income neighborhood.

Bucks sign top recruits

COLUMBUS, O. (AP) — Three first team All-Ohio selections — including Mr. Football, Bob Hoyer of St. Henry — have verbally committed to attend Ohio State this fall, according to a broadcast report Monday.

Also committing to OSU were defensive lineman Craig Powell of Youngstown Rayen and offensive lineman Greg Kuszmaul of Warren Kennedy, Columbus television station WBNS reported.

Hoyer, a 6-foot-5, 210-pound quarterback, led St. Henry to a 14-0 record and the Division V state champion. He completed 105 of 180 passes for 1,736 yards and 20 touchdowns during the regular season. He was intercepted just five times. After the season he was named Mr. Football by The Associated Press as Ohio's best prep player.

Favorites lead Australian Open

Becker, Graf fight off wind, weather to set a quick pace

by Steve Wilstein
AP tennis writer

MELBOURNE, Australia — Boris Becker and Steffi Graf, more predictable than the weird weather, stylishly kicked off the Australian Open on a day when courtside temperatures plunged from 110 degrees to 60.

Midday winds took the edge off the heat, blue skies turned purple, feathery clouds gave way to rain. Through it all tennis balls kept flying, outdoors and indoors, for 13½ hours Monday.

Becker paused only during a brief sprinkle and the closing of the retractable roof above center court before beating Jeremy Bates 6-4, 6-2, 6-3. Graf slowed down just long enough to allow her opponent, Jennifer Santrock, to catch her breath in their 48-minute, 6-3, 6-0 match.

Also, fourth-seeded Gabriela Sabatini, putting behind her memory of the severely sprained ankle she suffered here a year ago, defeated dangerous newcomer Linda Harvey-Wild 6-3, 6-1.

Becker, ranked No. 2 behind Stefan Edberg, could take over the No. 1 spot if he wins this title. But first he'd just like to get past the quarterfinals, something he hasn't done in five appearances here. He came to Australia three weeks ago to adjust to the heat and work on his hard-court game, but then lost first-round matches in back-to-back tournaments.

Some players are wondering whether Becker will ever do well here.

"He could have another 10 attempts" and not win, Bates said. "After all, Borg never won the U.S. Open and Lendl's never won Wimbledon. I think Boris has a chance to win here, probably more than Lendl has of winning Wimbledon."

Becker's work before the tournament paid off with a better first-round performance than he's usually had here, though he's never suffered the indignity of losing an opening match.

"I'm feeling a little bit better about my timing," Becker said.

A wildly cheering crowd of British fans roared on each point Bates won, but they failed to distract Becker. Neither was Becker put off by a break in play to wipe off the court and close the roof when the rain came at 6-4, 4-0.

Graf ran her Australian Open victory streak to 22 as she opened her bid for a fourth straight title and answered the bold talk of her rivals, who claim she is more vulnerable than ever.

Graf sported a shorter haircut and a blood-red bandana that gave her a lean, mean look.

Sprinting around the court and showing off a stronger topspin backhand than she's ever had,

Graf raced to a 4-0 lead before losing concentration and making four straight errors in a service break.

Santrock, ranked 151 but hardly intimidated amid all the reports of Graf's imminent demise, held her next two services with deep, angled shots off her left-handed forehand. But she could do little once Graf regained her rhythm and pounded the ball throughout the second set.

"I feel I'm hitting the ball better than at this time last year," said Graf, who hasn't won a Grand Slam event since winning here a year ago. "In the first set, I tried a little too much. But in the second set, I was calmer. I served better and concentrated well."

Wyche satisfied with his 9-7 team

CINCINNATI (AP) — Coach Sam Wyche is irked by suggestions that his Cincinnati Bengals team was an underachieving unit this season.

"Nine-and-seven was about where we belonged," said Wyche, who brushes off criticisms that the Bengals were inconsistent and unfocused this season. "That was good enough to be the best in our division, and we went through that way the entire season. That's not a roller-coaster ride."

The Bengals won the AFC Central Division with a 9-7 record and beat Houston in the AFC playoffs before Sunday's 20-10 loss to the Raiders in Los Angeles. A year ago, the Bengals finished 8-8 and missed the playoffs, just a season after having gone to the Super Bowl.

But some of the Bengals players say the team should consider changes for the 1991 season. "They've got to get us back into it," wide receiver Tim McGee said.

He and fellow wide receiver Eddie Brown combined for just three pass receptions Sunday. Brown and McGee saw the ball increasingly less this season as the Bengals emphasized the running game.

Quarterback Boomer Esiason completed eight of 15 passes Sunday. It was the seventh consecutive game in which the Bengals threw 22 times or less.

Esiason suggested that the Bengals should decide at some point whether they want to "pound it or throw it."

Favorites lead Australian Open

Becker, Graf fight off wind, weather to set a quick pace

by Steve Wilstein
AP tennis writer

MELBOURNE, Australia — Boris Becker and Steffi Graf, more predictable than the weird weather, stylishly kicked off the Australian Open on a day when courtside temperatures plunged from 110 degrees to 60.

Midday winds took the edge off the heat, blue skies turned purple, feathery clouds gave way to rain. Through it all tennis balls kept flying, outdoors and indoors, for 13½ hours Monday.

Becker paused only during a brief sprinkle and the closing of the retractable roof above center court before beating Jeremy Bates 6-4, 6-2, 6-3. Graf slowed down just long enough to allow her opponent, Jennifer Santrock, to catch her breath in their 48-minute, 6-3, 6-0 match.

Also, fourth-seeded Gabriela Sabatini, putting behind her memory of the severely sprained ankle she suffered here a year ago, defeated dangerous newcomer Linda Harvey-Wild 6-3, 6-1.

Becker, ranked No. 2 behind Stefan Edberg, could take over the No. 1 spot if he wins this title. But first he'd just like to get past the quarterfinals, something he hasn't done in five appearances here. He came to Australia three weeks ago to adjust to the heat and work on his hard-court game, but then lost first-round matches in back-to-back tournaments.

Some players are wondering whether Becker will ever do well here.

"He could have another 10 attempts" and not win, Bates said. "After all, Borg never won the U.S. Open and Lendl's never won Wimbledon. I think Boris has a chance to win here, probably more than Lendl has of winning Wimbledon."

Becker's work before the tournament paid off with a better first-round performance than he's usually had here, though he's never suffered the indignity of losing an opening match.

"I'm feeling a little bit better about my timing," Becker said.

A wildly cheering crowd of British fans roared on each point Bates won, but they failed to distract Becker. Neither was Becker put off by a break in play to wipe off the court and close the roof when the rain came at 6-4, 4-0.

Graf ran her Australian Open victory streak to 22 as she opened her bid for a fourth straight title and answered the bold talk of her rivals, who claim she is more vulnerable than ever.

Graf sported a shorter haircut and a blood-red bandana that gave her a lean, mean look.

"I feel I'm hitting the ball better than at this time last year," said Graf, who hasn't won a Grand Slam event since winning here a year ago. "In the first set, I tried a little too much. But in the second set, I was calmer. I served better and concentrated well."

Cleveland hosts Mel Harder Day

CHARDON, O. (AP) — While the debate rages over Pete Rose's eligibility for the baseball Hall of Fame, a drive is on to get another Ohio player enshrined at Cooperstown, N.Y.

Chardon Village, a community of about 5,000 in Geauga County, designated Sunday as "Mel Harder Day" and held a reception at the Chardon Library to honor the 81-year-old Harder, who had his No. 18 retired by the Cleveland Indians last summer.

Harder compiled a 223-186 record as a pitcher for the Indians from 1928-47 and was a pitching coach from 1948-62. His 1954 Cleveland staff was one of the best in baseball history, featuring

Hall of Fame pitchers Bob Feller, Bob Lemon and Early Wynn.

A native of Beemer, Neb., Harder now lives in Chardon. He never got the required 75 percent of the baseball writers' votes when his name was on the regular ballot, so now his only chance rests with a special Hall of Fame veterans' committee.

The right-hander entered the Ohio Baseball Hall of Fame in 1978.

"But he also belongs in the national Hall of Fame," said Thomas C. Eakin, founder and president of the Ohio Baseball Hall of Fame. "He's being denied and that's a sacrilege. I hope he makes it while he's still alive."

Home teams feast in playoffs

Washington, now out of the race, the only club to win on road in 1991

by Dave Goldberg
AP football writer

All that talk about the home-field advantage in the playoffs wasn't CoachSpeak after all.

The one thing notable about the NFL playoffs is the near dominance by home teams. In the eight games over two weekends, the visitors won only once — Washington over Philadelphia — and were outscored 186-93.

Even more striking were the weekend's four games, which set up conference title games involving the top two seeds in the AFC and NFC — the Los Angeles Raiders at Buffalo for the AFC title; the New York Giants at San Francisco in the NFC.

All four had first-round byes, giving each an extra week of rest and an extra week of preparation against teams that had to endure a wild-card contest.

It was particularly telling on

Chicago and Cincinnati, the two division winners with the worst records in each conference.

Until this season they would have had last week off. Under the new format, which added two wild-card teams to the playoffs to bring in added television money, they were forced to play last week.

Then there was Buffalo's Jim Kelly, who had an extra week to recover from his knee bruise and went all the way in the Bills' 44-34 win over Miami, throwing for 339 yards.

The Giants, for example, used a 4-3 defense for the first time this season and held Chicago, which had run for 189 yards in its 16-6 win over New Orleans, to 27 rushing yards in 16 carries.

"The extra time we had to work on it really paid off in our techniques and that kind of stuff," said New York's Erik Howard, who moved from nose tackle to left tackle in the new front. "If you run that defense without preparation, it's a whole different world."

Cincinnati went to Los Angeles against the Raiders without the left side of its offensive line, injured in the 41-14 win over Houston. James Brooks, the Bengals' best running back, played with a cast on his dislocated left thumb

"We saddled up with what we had against a championship caliber team."

—Sam Wyche,
Bengals' head coach

and saw limited action, in part because of the flu.

So Greg Townsend of the Raiders lined up against Kirk Scrifford, a rookie free-agent instead of perennial All-Pro Anthony Munoz, who was in too much pain from a torn rotator cuff to play. Townsend had three sacks, including a 15-yarder that stopped the Bengals when they trailed 17-10 in a 20-10 loss.

"We saddled up with what we had against a championship caliber team," said Cincinnati coach Sam Wyche.

The home-field advantage doesn't change next week, either.

The early line on the championship games made Buffalo a 4-point favorite over the Raiders at Rich Stadium. The Bills beat Los Angeles 38-24 there earlier this year, turning a series of turnovers into scores after the Raiders took a 24-14 lead early in the fourth quarter.

The 49ers, meanwhile, were made 7-point favorites over the Giants, who they beat 7-3 in the season's lowest-scoring game of the year. The one difference this time will be the Giants' quarterback — the injured Phil Simms has been replaced by Jeff Hostetler, the less experienced but more mobile backup who passed for two touchdowns and ran for another against the Bears.

Japan Bowl not kind to OSU's Frey

by Phil Brown
AP writer

YOKOHAMA, Japan — For Ohio State quarterback Greg Frey and the East all-stars' offense, leaving out the first 24 minutes would have made it a happier Japan Bowl.

For Oregon quarterback Bill Musgrave of the West, "It was a pretty fun first quarter."

Actually, the West did all the scoring it needed in the first 10 minutes Sunday, taking a 17-0 lead. It ended with a 20-14 victory, its 11th triumph in 16 Japan Bowls.

Frey's first two plays were a 9-yard loss on a sack and a 10-yard loss on a slipdown. Then he completed a 1-yard throw and missed on eight consecutive passes — including two interceptions.

The East never got outside its own territory in the first quarter.

Musgrave, meanwhile, missed on his first two passes before clicking on seven in a row in the first quarter for 103 of his 154 yards. In all, he was 12 for 18.

The West's first possession ended in a missed 51-yard field goal attempt by California's Robbie Keen. But it scored the next three times it had the ball.

Keen began it with a 42-yard field goal. One minute later, the West had its first touchdown, on a three-play, 61-yard drive.

Musgrave hit Mike Pritchard of Colorado for 39 yards and Scott Miller of UCLA for 10 before Ricky Ervins of Southern California ran the final 12 yards.

The West got the ball right back on an interception by Jono Tunney of Stanford, who returned it 27 yards to the East 8. Three plays later, Iowa's Nick Bell scored from the 3.

Then it was Colorado defensive back Dave McCloughan's turn to intercept Frey.

Musgrave drove the West back into East territory before the quarter ended and San Jose State's Ralph Martini took over at quarterback.

The East defense finally got into the game as Tony Covington of Virginia intercepted Martini, Lamone Russell of Alabama recovered a McCloughan fumble on a punt return and Richard Fain of Florida intercepted Martini again with 6:41 left in the half.

That's when Frey gladly would have started his day.

In an 11-play, 93-yard drive, he hit on passes of 5, 11, 6 and 7 yards before connecting with Barry Johnson of Maryland for 34 yards and a touchdown with 1:56 left in the half.

Musgrave came back in the third quarter and moved the West close enough for a 38-yard field goal by Keen that made it 20-7.

The East immediately went 63 yards in 11 plays, with Michigan's Jarrod Bunch plunging the final yard for the game's final touchdown before some 30,000 spectators in Yokohama stadium. Frey kept the drive going with passes of 19 and 17 yards to Bobby Slaughter of Louisiana Tech and 14 yards to Lawrence Dawsey of Florida State.

Time ran out on a West drive that went as far as the East 5.

Despite the early disaster, Frey finished with 174 yards on 15 completions in 35 attempts. The East's second quarterback, Shawn Moore of Virginia, sat out the game with an injured thumb.

Martini was 4-for-13 for 37 yards and two interceptions. The West also rushed for 118 yards, while the East gained only 61 yards on the ground.

Colorado's Pritchard was voted the best offensive player, while teammate McCloughan won the defensive honors.

Bengals' TE coach hangs it up

CINCINNATI (AP) — Bill "Tiger" Johnson, a former Cincinnati Bengals head coach who coached tight ends this season, says he has decided to retire.

Johnson will turn 65 on July 14. He told the Bengals' radio network Sunday in Los Angeles that he is retiring. The Bengals' publicity office confirmed his retirement Monday.

He served as offensive line coach under Bengals founder and coach Paul Brown from the team's inception in 1968 until Brown's retirement in 1975. Johnson became Cincinnati's head coach in 1976. He had an 18-15 record as head coach, but moved on after an 0-5 start in 1978.

Johnson had assistant coaching positions with Tampa Bay and Detroit.

PLACEMENT SCHEDULE

BOWLING GREEN STATE UNIVERSITY
UNIVERSITY PLACEMENT SERVICES
Campus Recruitment Calendar #8

For The Weeks of:
January 28 & February 4, 1991

Scheduling On-Campus Interview Appointments:

The first day of sign-ups for interviews during the period of January 28 through February 8, 1991 will be held on Wednesday, January 16, at 4 p.m. in the Community Suite of the University Union. All registrants must have a First Choice Interview Card to participate in the first day of sign-ups. After the first day, students and Alumni may sign-up for interviews from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. at the University Placement Services, 360 Student Services Building A. Data Sheet MUST be submitted for each interview scheduled at the time of sign-up.

Cancellation of Interview Appointments: Cancellation of an interview must be reported in person to the University Placement Services no later than 5 p.m. one week (7 full days) before the interview day. Complete a cancellation card in the Sign-Up Room of the Placement Office. Cancellations after this time will be considered a no-show. Cancellations will NOT be accepted by telephone. You are encouraged to carefully consider employers before signing up for interviews.

No Show Policy: Failure to appear for a scheduled interview or violation of the cancellation policy will result in immediate suspension of your sign-up privileges for the next recruiting period. If you did not honor your scheduled interview, you are required to write a letter of apology to the employer for missing the interview, bring the letter with an addressed, stamped envelope, and meet with a Placement Counselor before scheduling any additional interviews. Any student who "no-shows" twice will be denied interviewing privileges for the remainder of the academic year.

Notice on Citizenship Requirements: An asterisk (*) following an organizational name denotes specific requirements regarding work status in the United States. Please review these requirements carefully. Only those organizations with an asterisk (*) will interview candidates with a student visa. Students who do not meet the work status requirements are encouraged to sign-up on the waiting list.

Spotlight Presentations: Spotlight presentations offer valuable information about career paths, detailed position responsibilities and organizational philosophy. All students scheduling interviews are strongly encouraged to attend appropriate Spotlights. Spotlight presentations are usually held at the University Placement Services office at 8 p.m. or 7:00 p.m. To enter the Student Services Building in the evening, you must use the second floor, patio entrance. Professional dress for Spotlight presentations is recommended. Please consult the calendar for appropriate dates, times and locations.

Additional Placement Services: There are important services available to you at the University Placement Services. Please note that not all organizations and companies regularly recruit on college campuses. The list below generally reflects the high demand areas in the world of work. Don't become discouraged if your career field is not requested. To assist you in conducting an assertive job search, the University Placement Services provides career and placement counseling, credential services, job search workshops, professional development seminars, career fairs and an alumni Falcon Career Connection. ## Cleveland hosts Mel Harder Day

CHARDON, O. (AP) — While the debate rages over Pete Rose's eligibility for the baseball Hall of Fame, a drive is on to get another Ohio player enshrined at Cooperstown, N.Y.

Chardon Village, a community of about 5,000 in Geauga County, designated Sunday as "Mel Harder Day" and held a reception at the Chardon Library to honor the 81-year-old Harder, who had his No. 18 retired by the Cleveland Indians last summer.

Harder compiled a 223-186 record as a pitcher for the Indians from 1928-47 and was a pitching coach from 1948-62. His 1954 Cleveland staff was one of the best in baseball history, featuring

Hall of Fame pitchers Bob Feller, Bob Lemon and Early Wynn.

A native of Beemer, Neb., Harder now lives in Chardon. He never got the required 75 percent of the baseball writers' votes when his name was on the regular ballot, so now his only chance rests with a special Hall of Fame veterans' committee.

The right-hander entered the Ohio Baseball Hall of Fame in 1978.

"But he also belongs in the national Hall of Fame," said Thomas C. Eakin, founder and president of the Ohio Baseball Hall of Fame. "He's being denied and that's a sacrilege. I hope he makes it while he's still alive."

Home teams feast in playoffs

Washington, now out of the race, the only club to win on road in 1991

by Dave Goldberg
AP football writer

All that talk about the home-field advantage in the playoffs wasn't CoachSpeak after all.

The one thing notable about the NFL playoffs is the near dominance by home teams. In the eight games over two weekends, the visitors won only once — Washington over Philadelphia — and were outscored 186-93.

Even more striking were the weekend's four games, which set up conference title games involving the top two seeds in the AFC and NFC — the Los Angeles Raiders at Buffalo for the AFC title; the New York Giants at San Francisco in the NFC.

All four had first-round byes, giving each an extra week of rest and an extra week of preparation against teams that had to endure a wild-card contest.

It was particularly telling on

Chicago and Cincinnati, the two division winners with the worst records in each conference.

Until this season they would have had last week off. Under the new format, which added two wild-card teams to the playoffs to bring in added television money, they were forced to play last week.

Then there was Buffalo's Jim Kelly, who had an extra week to recover from his knee bruise and went all the way in the Bills' 44-34 win over Miami, throwing for 339 yards.

The Giants, for example, used a 4-3 defense for the first time this season and held Chicago, which had run for 189 yards in its 16-6 win over New Orleans, to 27 rushing yards in 16 carries.

"The extra time we had to work on it really paid off in our techniques and that kind of stuff," said New York's Erik Howard, who moved from nose tackle to left tackle in the new front. "If you run that defense without preparation, it's a whole different world."

Cincinnati went to Los Angeles against the Raiders without the left side of its offensive line, injured in the 41-14 win over Houston. James Brooks, the Bengals' best running back, played with a cast on his dislocated left thumb

—Sam Wyche,
Bengals' head coach

and saw limited action, in part because of the flu.

So Greg Townsend of the Raiders lined up against Kirk Scrifford, a rookie free-agent instead of perennial All-Pro Anthony Munoz, who was in too much pain from a torn rotator cuff to play. Townsend had three sacks, including a 15-yarder that stopped the Bengals when they trailed 17-10 in a 20-10 loss.

"We saddled up with what we had against a championship caliber team," said Cincinnati coach Sam Wyche.

The home-field advantage doesn't change next week, either.

The early line on the championship games made Buffalo a 4-point favorite over the Raiders at Rich Stadium. The Bills beat Los Angeles 38-24 there earlier this year, turning a series of turnovers into scores after the Raiders took a 24-14 lead early in the fourth quarter.

The 49ers, meanwhile, were made 7-point favorites over the Giants, who they beat 7-3 in the season's lowest-scoring game of the year. The one difference this time will be the Giants' quarterback — the injured Phil Simms has been replaced by Jeff Hostetler, the less experienced but more mobile backup who passed for two touchdowns and ran for another against the Bears.

Japan Bowl not kind to OSU's Frey

by Phil Brown
AP writer

YOKOHAMA, Japan — For Ohio State quarterback Greg Frey and the East all-stars' offense, leaving out the first 24 minutes would have made it a happier Japan Bowl.

For Oregon quarterback Bill Musgrave of the West, "It was a pretty fun first quarter."

Actually, the West did all the scoring it needed in the first 10 minutes Sunday, taking a 17-0 lead. It ended with a 20-14 victory, its 11th triumph in 16 Japan Bowls.

Frey's first two plays were a 9-yard loss on a sack and a 10-yard loss on a slipdown. Then he completed a 1-yard throw and missed on eight consecutive passes — including two interceptions.

The East never got outside its own territory in the first quarter.

Musgrave, meanwhile, missed on his first two passes before clicking on seven in a row in the first quarter for 103 of his 154 yards. In all, he was 12 for 18.

The West's first possession ended in a missed 51-yard field goal attempt by California's Robbie Keen. But it scored the next three times it had the ball.

Keen began it with a 42-yard field goal. One minute later, the West had its first touchdown, on a three-play, 61-yard drive.

Musgrave hit Mike Pritchard of Colorado for 39 yards and Scott Miller of UCLA for 10 before Ricky Ervins of Southern California ran the final 12 yards.

The West got the ball right back on an interception by Jono Tunney of Stanford, who returned it 27 yards to the East 8. Three plays later, Iowa's Nick Bell scored from the 3.

Then it was Colorado defensive back Dave McCloughan's turn to intercept Frey.

Musgrave drove the West back into East territory before the quarter ended and San Jose State's Ralph Martini took over at quarterback.

The East defense finally got into the game as Tony Covington of Virginia intercepted Martini, Lamonde Russell of Alabama recovered a McCloughan fumble on a punt return and Richard Fain of Florida intercepted Martini again with 6:41 left in the half.

That's when Frey gladly would have started his day.

In an 11-play, 93-yard drive, he hit on passes of 5, 11, 6 and 7 yards before connecting with Barry Johnson of Maryland for 34 yards and a touchdown with 1:56 left in the half.

Musgrave came back in the third quarter and moved the West close enough for a 38-yard field goal by Keen that made it 20-7.

The East immediately went 63 yards in 11 plays, with Michigan's Jarrod Bunch plunging the final yard for the game's final touchdown before some 30,000 spectators in Yokohama stadium. Frey kept the drive going with passes of 19 and 17 yards to Bobby Slaughter of Louisiana Tech and 14 yards to Lawrence Dawsey of Florida State.

Time ran out on a West drive that went as far as the East 5.

Despite the early disaster, Frey finished with 174 yards on 15 completions in 35 attempts. The East's second quarterback, Shawn Moore of Virginia, sat out the game with an injured thumb.

Martini was 4-for-13 for 37 yards and two interceptions. The West also rushed for 118 yards, while the East gained only 61 yards on the ground.

Colorado's Pritchard was voted the best offensive player, while teammate McCloughan won the defensive honors.

Bengals' TE coach hangs it up

CINCINNATI (AP) — Bill "Tiger" Johnson, a former Cincinnati Bengals head coach who coached tight ends this season, says he has decided to retire.

Johnson will turn 65 on July 14. He told the Bengals' radio network Sunday in Los Angeles that he is retiring. The Bengals' publicity office confirmed his retirement Monday.

He served as offensive line coach under Bengals founder and coach Paul Brown from the team's inception in 1968 until Brown's retirement in 1975. Johnson became Cincinnati's head coach in 1976. He had an 18-15 record as head coach, but moved on after an 0-5 start in 1978.

Johnson had assistant coaching positions with Tampa Bay and Detroit.

PLACEMENT SCHEDULE

BOWLING GREEN STATE UNIVERSITY
UNIVERSITY PLACEMENT SERVICES
Campus Recruitment Calendar #8

For The Weeks of:
January 28 & February 4, 1991

Scheduling On-Campus Interview Appointments:

The first day of sign-ups for interviews during the period of January 28 through February 8, 1991 will be held on Wednesday, January 16, at 4 p.m. in the Community Suite of the University Union. All registrants must have a First Choice Interview Card to participate in the first day of sign-ups. After the first day, students and Alumni may sign-up for interviews from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. at the University Placement Services, 360 Student Services Building A. Data Sheet MUST be submitted for each interview scheduled at the time of sign-up.

Cancellation of Interview Appointments: Cancellation of an interview must be reported in person to the University Placement Services no later than 5 p.m. one week (7 full days) before the interview day. Complete a cancellation card in the Sign-Up Room of the Placement Office. Cancellations after this time will be considered a no-show. Cancellations will NOT be accepted by telephone. You are encouraged to carefully consider employers before signing up for interviews.

No Show Policy: Failure to appear for a scheduled interview or violation of the cancellation policy will result in immediate suspension of your sign-up privileges for the next recruiting period. If you did not honor your scheduled interview, you are required to write a letter of apology to the employer for missing the interview, bring the letter with an addressed, stamped envelope, and meet with a Placement Counselor before scheduling any additional interviews. Any student who "no-shows" twice will be denied interviewing privileges for the remainder of the academic year.

Notice on Citizenship Requirements: An asterisk (*) following an organizational name denotes specific requirements regarding work status in the United States. Please review these requirements carefully. Only those organizations with an asterisk (*) will interview candidates with a student visa. Students who do not meet the work status requirements are encouraged to sign-up on the waiting list.

Spotlight Presentations: Spotlight presentations offer valuable information about career paths, detailed position responsibilities and organizational philosophy. All students scheduling interviews are strongly encouraged to attend appropriate Spotlights. Spotlight presentations are usually held at the University Placement Services office at 6 p.m. or 7:00 p.m. To enter the Student Services Building in the evening, you must use the second floor, patio entrance. Professional dress for Spotlight presentations is recommended. Please consult the calendar for appropriate dates, times and locations.

Additional Placement Services: There are important services available to you at the University Placement Services. Please note that not all organizations and companies regularly recruit on college campuses. The list below generally reflects the high demand areas in the world of work. Don't become discouraged if your career field is not requested. To assist you in conducting an assertive job search, the University Placement Services provides career and placement counseling, credential services, job search workshops, professional development seminars, career fairs and an alumni Falcon Career Connection. The excellent Center for Career Resources, located in Room 300, Student Services Building, offers you career and employer information and current job vacancies in ALL career fields. Placement Counselors directly refer registered students to employers in their desired career fields. Ensure your access to these services by registering with the University Placement Services in your final year at Bowling Green State University.
